

Preliminary examination

Sample Q-3 contains modern electrophotographic toner fused over a tea-stained surface. Beneath the stain is a bright synthetic binder fiber. The neighboring clipping fragment is compatible with nineteenth-century rag stock. This is a composite: an old clipping does not authenticate the later note attached to it.

Chain note: Voss removed loose surface toner at 8:05 p.m.; the embedded toner and fiber were photographed first and remain observable.